ON THE WATCH.

Concluded.

That evening, in the bousekeeper's room, Rosa can do nothing but normur Lady Dedlock's praises. She is so affable, so graceful, so beautiful, so elegant; has such a sweet voice, and such a thrilling touch that Rosa can feel if yet! Mr. Rouner-wed confirms all this, not without personal pide, reserving only the one point of autability. Mrs. Rouner-wed is not quite sure as to that. Heaven forbid that she should say a syllable in dispraise of any member of that excellent family: above all, of my Lady, whom the whole world minites; but it my Lady would only be "a little more free," not quite so cold and distant, Mrs. Rouncewell thinks she would be more affable.

"It's almost a pig," Mrs. Rouncewell adds—only "almost" becasse it borders on impicty to uppose that any thing could better than it is, in such an express disponention as the Dedlock affair, "that my Lady has no family. If she had had adapther now, a grown young lady, to interest het. I think she would have had the only lind of excellence she wants."

"Might not that have made her still more proud, grandmother "" says Wutt; who has seen hance and come back again, he is such a good grandson."

The brilliant and distinguished circle comprehends within it no contracted amount of editorion, sense, rowage, honor, beauty and virtue. Yet there is something a little wrong about it, in despite of its immense advantages. What can it be?

Dandyism? There is no King George the Fourth now (more's the pity) to set the dundy inshion; there are no clear starched jack-towel neck-cloths, no short-waisted coats, no mise calves, no step.

There are no caricalates, now, of effeminate ex-There are no cariculares, now, of emenmina ex-quisities an arrayed, swooning in open boxes with excess of delight, and being revived by other dainty creatures, polying long-necked secut-but-tles at their moses. There is no beau whom it takes four men at once to shake into his buck-akins, or who goes to see all the "excentions, or who is troubled with the self remoneb of having once consumed a pea.

But there is Daudyism in the brilliant and dis-But there is Dandyism in the brilliant and dis-tinguished circle notwithstanding. Dandyism of a more mischievous sort, that has got below the surface, and is doing less harmless things than jack-roweling itself and stopping its own diges-tion, to which no rational person need particular-ly object?

inci-toweding itself and stopping to won agestion, to which no rational person need particularly object?

Why, yes. It can not be disguised. There are, at Chesney Wold this January week, some Indies and gentlemen of the newest fishion, who have set up a Dandyisin—in Religion, for instance, who, in mere fackadaisted want of an emotion, invagreed upon a little dandy talk about the Vulgar wanting faith in things in general; meaning in the things that have been tried and found canting, as though a low fellow should unaccountably lose faith in a bad shilling, after finding it out. Who would make the Vulgar very picture-sque and faithful, by pulting back the hands upon the Clock of Time, and canceling a few hundred years of instory.

There are also ladies and geatlemen of another fashion, not so new, but very elogant, who have agreed to put a smooth glaze on the world, and to keep down all its realities. For whom everything must be languid and preity. Who have found out the perpetual stoppage. Who are to rejoice at nothing, and be sorry for nothing. Who are to rejoice at nothing, and be sorry for nothing who are the five Arts, attending in powder and walking backward like the Lord Chamberkin, must array themselves in the milliners' and tailors' patterns of par generations, and to be particularly careful not to be in earmest, or to receive any impress from the moving arge.

Then there is my Lord Boodle, of considerable be in earnest, or to receive any impress from the moving ago.

Then there is my Lord Boodle, of considerable reputation with his party, who has known what office is, and who tells Sir Leicester Dedlock with much gravity, after diamer, that he really does not see to what the present age is tending.—

A delate is not what the present age is tending.—

A delate is not what the flouse used to be; even a Cabinet is not what it formerly was. He perceives with astonishment, that supposing the present Government to be overthrown, the limited choice of the Crown, in the formation of a new Ministry. of the Crown, in the formation of a new Minis would lie between Lord Coodle and Sir Thowould lie between Lord Coodle and Sir Thomas Doodle—suppossing it to be impossible for the Duke of Poodle to act with Goodle, which may be assumed to be the case in consequence of the incach arising out of that affair with Hoodle.—Then, giving the Home Department and the Leading of the House of Commons to Joodle, the Erclisquer to Koodle, the Colonies to Loodle, and the Fareign Office to Moodle, what are you to do with Moodle? You can't offer him the Presidency of the Conneil; that is reserved for Foodle—You can't put him in the Woods and Forests:

Muny. All this, margan of denights are, dependent upon the mere caprice of Prifig.

As to this point, as to some tainor topics, there are differences of opinion; but it is pericetly clear to the brilliant and distinguished circle, oll round, that nobody is in question but Boodle and his retione, and Buffy and Larman. These are the great actors for whom too stage is received.—A People there are, no doubt—a certain large number of supernomeraties, who are to be occusionally addressed, and relied upon for should and choruses, as on the theatrical stage; but Boodle and Buffy, their followes and families, are the born first-actors, numagers, and leaders, and no others can appear upon the scene forever, and ever.

In this, too, there is perhaps more dandy ism at In this, too, there is perhaps more dandyism at Chesney World than the brilliant and distinguished circle will find good for itself in the long can for it is, even with the stillest and politicst circles, as with the circle the necronancer draws around him-very strange appearances may be seen inactive mation outside. With this difference; that, being realities and not phantoms, there is great danger of their breaking in.

Chesney Wold is note full, any how; so full that a burning sense of injury arises in the breaking it. Only one from is country it is a turret chamber of the third order of merit, plainty but comfortably furnished, and having an old tinguished. Only one morn is eleptly, it is a turret chamber of the third order of merit, plainly but constortably furnished, and having an old lashioned business air. It is Mr. Tulkinghounds room, and is never bestowed upon any bodycley, for he may come at any time. He is not come yet. It is his quiet habit to walk across the park from the village, in fine weather; to deep into this room, as if he had never been out of it since he was lest seen there; to request a servant to inform Sir Leieester that he is arrived, in case he should be wanted; and to appear ten minutes before dinner in the aliadow of the library door. He sleeps in his turret, with a compining they staff over his head; and has some leads outside, on which, any fine morning when he is down here, his black figure may be seen walking before breakfast like a large species of rock.

Every day before dinner, my Lady looks for him in the dusk of the library, but he is not there. Every day before dinner, had glances down the table for the vacant place, that would be waiting to receive him if he had just arrived; but there is no vacant place. Every night, my Lady ensually asks her maid:

"Is Mr. Tulkinghore come?"

Every night the answer is, "No my Lady, not yet."

Presidency of the United States. In numbers, in enthusiasm, and in the hearty unanimity with which the Whig ticket was adopted, this gathering has not been equalled since if 40, and was not exceeded then. The elements were propitions. and all the arrangements for the meeting well devised. Broadway House, the Whig Head-Quarters, was crowded in every part, while the streets in front of the building were thronged with thousands of people. For an hour or more indeed. Broadway, for the space of two blocks was impassable by reason of the dense multiude collected at the meeting; and omnibusses backs and carts, hopeless of penetrating the mass. turned into the side streets. Five regularly orcanized meetings were in progress at the same me, and the most indifferent observer could not fail to be struck with the carnest and outhusiastic spirit which pervaded the entire assemblage. It Last night again the cities of Brooklyn and beiser City. New York's two great suburbs, held their ratification meetings. They were marked by the same cocouraging signs which characterized the New York assemblage. In Brooklyn the gathering was immense and the enthusiasm overwhelming. One slab, nearly seventeen have-dred strong, marched down to the place of intering, with music, banners, transparencies and torch-lights, making the streets glow with light and ring with cheers, as they passed along. They hailed from the "Landy's Lane Barracks," their head-quarters during the coming campaign. In Jersey City, there was the like spirit, the like numbers, the like determination to fight the hat-the "op to the handle," and the like confidence of success. I have never seen the Whigs of N. York nore carnest, more animated, or more sauguine of victory. Even the few who held back at first because disappointed in the manination, have given in their adhesion to the Whig cause, and will aid in securing the triumph which will again erown Gen'l Score's forces in November next.

A new musical prodigy, Madame Alboni, made her debut in New York two evenings ago at Metropolitan Hall. I had the good fortune to hear her. Her voice is a magnificent, one, and cultivated to the last degree of finish. She sings with Noodle? You can't offer him the Presidency of the Council; that is reserved for Poodle.

You can't put him in the Woods and Forests; that is hardly good enough for Quoodle? What islaws? That the country is shipwrecked, lost, and gone to pieces, (as is made manifest to the patriction of Sir Leicester Dedlock), because you can't provide for Noodle?

On the other hand, the Right Honorable William Buffy, M. P., contends across the table with some one else that the shipwreck of the country—about which there is no doubt; it is only the manner of it that is in question—is attributable to Cuffy. If you had done with Cuffy what you could have brought to have done when he first came into Parliament, and had prevented him from going over to Duffy, you would have got him into alliance with Puffy, you would have got him into alliance with Puffy, you would have brought to bear upon the elections the wealth of Huffy, you would have brought to bear upon the elections the wealth of Huffy, you would have brought attaching as a smart debater to Guffy, you would have brought to bear upon the elections the wealth of Huffy, you would have brought to bear upon the elections the wealth of Huffy, you would have a monification by the original incoverage and the business habits of the participation of the decrease and the participation and following her performances, which made manners, which made removable Jenny Lind's concerts, not into an analytic proposed the removable Jenny Lind's concerts to only, and was huried the dol I think her quite up to Jenny Lind's made of the jurgoe, attending her recommends to be any into the dollowing her performances, which made removable Jenny Lind's concerts to only and the dollowing her performances, which made removable Jenny Lind's her that is in you had be I think her quite up to Jenny Lind's and the single exception Albon, of Virginia, de nelly, and we have the first came in the participation of the jurgoe, attending her recommends of the jurgoe and the jurgoe and the jurgoe and the jurgoe an with remarkable case, and with classic taste. mark; but with that single exception Alboni, in 10 possess themselves of their lands in Mercer

Broadway is in a most unfluished and uncorn tortable state. To reasonably accommodate the ins-mense travel which pours through it from her orchock in the morning, till after mininglet; it orchock in the morning, till after mininglet; it ought to be in least double its present width; whereas its limited dimensions, already far too mall, are constantly eneroughed upon by incprovements of all sorts; new hotels, new stores involvements do at the softening of the continues of the position continues of the continue ew payethents, des, de. It is nother difficult navigation for pode-trians on the side-walk, and still more so for vehicles in the street; and as for nearly half a century—and that the demand for American stocks, especially for those of States not taioted with regulation, was steadily increasing. There is great demand, and considerable specula tion here too, for Railroad stocks and bonds, and no difficulty is experienced in disposing of good bonds at fair rates. I unficed that $200,000 or our Milwaukee and Mississippi Rail Road Bonds, are to be offered next week, and cannot doubt that In the present condition of the money market, se-curities as desirable as these are, will meet with ready sale. Mushington, June 29.

Aithough Mr. Clay's death has been almost uncapered for some time past, yet those in attendance did not even this morning anticipate that the sad event was so near. During yesterday and last night he seemed to breathe with the greatest difficulty, and evidently endemored to communicate some wish to those about him.

But from his other prostration scarcely maything he said could be understood. He however seemed perfectly resigned to his approaching end and feed with the utmest calmoness.

His som who has been with him some time, has been most deeply affected.

Bundreds have already applied to take their last look of him. Despatches have been received from Pittburgh, Wheeling, Cimeinnati, and Lonaville which state that the announcement of Mr. Clay's death had been received with every manifestation of sorrow. At Louisville a meeting was called and a delegation chosen to leave immediately for Washington.

N. Y. June, 29. Washington, June 29.

Levy for Washington.

Upon the announcement of the death of Henry Clay, the flags on the City Hall and all the public building were raised at half mast.

Washington, 29 1 o'clock, P. M.

A solemn sadness persades the antire community—the bells are tolling and the city wears the yart of sorrow. Mr. Clay breathed his last at ten minutes post eleven, Rev. Mr. Dulter, his spiritual adviser and other friends being present—he died with the utnost composure and was believed to be perfectly sensible, though he uttered not a word, the Executive offices and other places of business are closed, and being arrayed in mourning. The flags are flying at half mast.

Judge Crawford immediately adjourned the criminal court on the receipt of the sad intolligence.

The only persons that were present at the deathtical were Mr. Clay's son, Ex-Governor Jones of Tennessee, and Mr. Calbert of the National Hotical were Mr. Clay's son, Ex-Governor Jones of Tennessee, and Mr. Calbert of the National Hotical Mr. Hall, his physician, was called for, but did not answer till the great statesman had exjoired. The skies are overcast, and an universal sorrow and gloom reigns throughout.

House—The House met at 12 o'clock.

Mr. Venable, of N. C., said—Mr. Speaker: in consequence of the report, which may be true, that the Hon. Heavy Clay, the illustrious Senator from Kentucky, breathed his last at his lodgings a few moments ago, I move that this House do now adjourn. Carried unanimously.

Sexarz—The Senate met at 12 o'clock.
Reading of the Journal was dispensed with and Mr. Hunter rose and said—Mr. President: A rumor has just reached us that Mr. Clay is dead iny colleague is absent rendering the last offices of friendship to the illustrious dead, and I move that the Senate do now adjourn. Carried unaninnously.

June 24,—2 P. M.

scepting the nomination for the fresidency:

June 24,—2 P. M.

Siz:—I have had the honor to receive from your hands the official notice of my unanimous nomination as the whig candidate for the office of President of the United States, together with a copy of the resolutions passed by the Convention, expressing their opinions upon some of the most prominent questions of national policy.

This great distinction, conferred by a numerous, intelligent, patriotic, body representing millions of my countrymen, sinks deep into my lear. Hencebering the many eminent names which were before the convention in anicable competition with my own, I am made to feel oppressively the weight of responsibility belonging to my new position. Not having written a wond to procure this distinction. I lost not a moment after it had been conferred, in addressing a letter to one of your members to signify what would be at a proper time the substance of my reply to the Convention—and I now have the honor to repeat in a more formal manner, as the occasion justify demands, that I accept the nomination with the Resolutions annexed.

Resolutions annexed.

The political principles and measures haid down in the resolutions are so broad, that there is little left for me to add. I therefore barely suggest in his place, should I by the partiality of my cometre men, be elevated to the Chief Magistracy of the Living Left Le reads in my connection. Union I shall be ready the Union, I shall be ready in my connection with Congress to recommender approve of measures in regard to the management of the public donain so far me to secure as early a settlement of the same to actual settlement spossible, but consistent, nevertheless, with a due regard to the equal rights of the whole American people in that rest National inheritance.

Also to recommend or approve of a single alteration in our navigation laws suggested by my indicary experience, giving to all foreigners the right of citizenship who shall faithfully serve in time of war one year on board of our public ships, or in our land forces, regular or volunteer, on their receiving an honorable discharge from the service.

or in our ianu iorces, regular or volunteer, on their receiving an honomable discharge from the service.

In regard to the general policy of the administration, if elected, I should of course look among those who may approve that policy for the agents to carry it into execution, and I should seek to cultivate perfect harmony and fraternal sentiments throughout the Whig party, without attempting to reduce its members by proscription to exact uniformity to my views; but I should at the same time be rigorous as to qualifications for office, retaining nor appointing no one deficient either in especity or integrity, or devotion to the Constitution and the Union.

Convinced that harmony or good will between the different quarters of our brond country is essential to the present and future, interests of the Republic, and with a devotion to those interests that can know no South or no North, I should neither countenance or tolerate any sedition, discorder, faction or resistance to the laws of the union on any pretext—in any part of the land, and I should carry into the civil adoministration this one principle of military conduct—obedience to the Legislative and Judicial departments of government, each in its constitutional sphere, saving only in respect to the Legislature the possible reaart to the veto power, always to be most cantioned y executed, and under the attrictest restraints and necessities.

Finally, for my strict adherence to the principles

Finally, for my strict adherence to the principles of the Whig party, as stated in the Resolutions of the Convention, and herein suggested with an amorer and samest purpose to advance the greatness and happiness of the Republic, and thus to cherish and encourage the ranse of constitution there, throughout the world, avoiding every act and thought that might involve our country in amjust or unnecessary war, or impair the inith of treaties of discountenance all political agitation injurious to the interests of society and daugerous to the Union—of the Union—.

I can offer no other pledge or guarantee than the known incidents of a long public. If the movement of the long public of the undergoing the severest examination. I consider myself highly fortunate in my associate on the ticket, and with a lively sense of my obligation to the Convention and to your personal courtesies. I have the honor to remain, sir, with great esteem, your ob't servant.

Washington, June 29,
Wearington, June 29,
Henry Clay departed this life at 11 o'clock and 25 minutes, this (Monday) morning.
The Baltimore bells were ringing 5 minutes after the announcement of his death, and the Philadelphia flags displayed at half-mass Philadelphia flags displayed at man-mass, diapad with crape.

At Washington, although this event was long expected. Clay's death struck the whole community with consternation. All the bells are telling—flags at half-mast, and general gluon prevals. Both Houses of Congress adjourned before reading the journals, on Clay's death being annumed.

Kender the Waren Fires!—The National Convention having faithfully done its duty, it but remains for the Whig of the Union to do theirs. Unexceptionable wen have been placed in nonlineation, and they must be elected. They can be, if the proper effort is made to secure such a result. Exerciting depends upon a thorough local organization. He will prove himself to be the most efficient Whig who does the most to get out the full Whig word of his immediate neighborhood.
